BOYCE APPOINTS A NEW DIRECTOR

The directors of leading professional services firm, Boyce Chartered Accountants are delighted to announce the appointment of Jono Hart as a director of the firm effective 1 January 2017.

In announcing the appointment, Boyce Managing Director Phil Alchin noted Jono’s outstanding contribution to the firm.

“Jono has made a huge contribution to the firm, not only with his unquestioned commitment to the Boyce vision of genuine care for our clients and passion for helping them maximise their wealth, and in recent years as a leader in the Goulburn office, but also with his support and commitment to the Boyce one team approach. The firm will be greatly strengthened by Jono joining our leadership group” said Phil.

Jono commenced with Boyce as a cadet in our Goulburn office in 2004. During his career Jono undertook a secondment to our Moree office. In 2012, Jono combined work with post-graduate studies to become a qualified Chartered Accountant. Jono, his wife Samantha and their two young boys are now firmly entrenched in Goulburn, with Jono’s continued role on the committee of the Goulburn and District Education Foundation and more recently joining the Goulburn Chamber of Commerce executive.

Jono is excited about the challenges and opportunities ahead.

“I am excited to partner with the Boyce directors to continue to provide opportunities for professionals to live and work in regional communities for a progressive firm that is passionate about caring for clients, developing their team and having a bit of fun along the way” said Jono.
