

Boyce Testimonial

It takes a special type of organisation to take to heart the well-being and future of its local community. Boyce Chartered Accountants is one such organisation.

Starting as a single foundation in Boorowa in 1993, the CEF today supports a family of over 40 local foundations across four states and territories. Boyce has been an integral part of our journey, supporting and guiding the organisation and enabling us to significantly expand our footprint and impact.

Boyce's personal and professional commitment to our cause has been the foundation of a true partnership. From high-level strategic and financial advice to hands-on, personal involvement in our local fundraising and volunteer activities, Boyce staff and directors have contributed on every level.

With their support the CEF is now able to provide direct assistance to over 600 students from rural and regional areas, annually. By supporting these young people we are also making an investment in the future of rural Australia.

We look forward to our future growth, confident that our partnership with Boyce positions us well to meet new challenges and extend our assistance to many more rural and regional students, families and communities in the future.

A handwritten signature in blue ink, reading "Nick Burton Taylor".

Nick Burton Taylor AM
Chairman
4 April, 2014